FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

There was a hint of the 'Sell in May' adage this year, before equity markets snapped back and finished the month in positive territory as encouraging news about the state of the US economy rippled positively through equity markets. The 8AM GLOBAL Focused fund recorded a small loss in May with a decline of -0.12%, versus a return of 0.22% from the UT Mixed Asset 40-85% Shares and a gain of 0.31% by the FTSE 100.

The marginal underperformance of the fund can be attributed to the fall of -9.98% in the share price of the BlackRock World Mining fund which was hit by the decline in the Gold Price of -5.12% as the prospect of rising US interest rates makes the holding of Gold, which is a zero yielding asset, less attractive. Nevertheless, we are happy to maintain this holding which adds diversification to the portfolio with commodity exposure and broadly speaking a strengthening US economy is good news long term for real assets. Elsewhere in the portfolio, the Polar Capital Global Insurance fund enjoyed a gain of 4.17%, Pictet Security added 3.74% and the Amundi Indian ETF gained 2.41%.

There was one significant move within the portfolio as we reduced cash, to make a purchase of the AXA Framlington Biotech fund which has a weighting of just over 7% in the portfolio. This is an interesting, volatile sector that your manager watches closely. It has witnessed a strong sell off recently which has provided a lower entry point. People are living longer and the need for companies to develop appropriate drugs never greater and we could see a lot of the big pharmaceutical companies with limited pipeline buying up small biotech stocks to improve their product line. Recent portents are encouraging that is picking up traction.

Clearly there are significant events looming, in particular the very real possibility of a BREXIT. With this in mind we maintain a high weighting outside of Stirling, which will insulate the portfolio to a degree and are light in UK and European equities. That said, we remain optimistic at the state of the World Economy and think the shape of the portfolio offers excellent long term growth opportunities.
