GENERAL RISKS

The value of investments, such as this security, and any income that may be paid from it, can go down as well as up and as such you may not get back the amount you initially invested. In some circumstances you may not receive any amount back from this investment. The value of the securities is affected by a wide variety of investment risks. These include the following: valuation of the reference asset(s) (including market disruption events) – please also note we do not perform any investigation or review of the reference asset(s) on behalf of any prospective investor in the securities; exchange rates, interest rates, inflation, yield, correlation, volatility, creditworthiness of the issuer, liquidity risk in the secondary market and leverage, path dependency, listing and legal and regulatory considerations. Additionally, the Issuer may establish, maintain, adjust or unwind its hedge positions with respect to the securities. Any hedge positions are the proprietary trading positions of the Issuer. The Issuer may hedge itself via Nomura International Plc. Hedging activities could affect valuation. Further, due to the diverse nature of the business activities of The Nomura Group (Nomura) we may have business connections with respect to the reference asset(s). Such activities may cause or lead to potential conflicts of interest. For reasons of client confidentiality and the management of its own business, Nomura will not disclose any such activities or information.

PRODUCT SPECIFIC RISKS

Currency Dependency: This security incorporates a quanto feature because the currency of the reference asset(s) is different to the currency of the securities. The quanto feature removes the effect that currency movements would normally have on the return of the securities at maturity. Hence when calculating the return of the securities the performance of the reference asset(s) in their base currency is used with no account taken for the exchange rate between the two currencies at such time. You should also be aware that movements in interest rates of both currencies will also affect the valuation of a security using a quanto feature. This non-exposure to currency may come at a cost or benefit to you depending on how currency exchange rates move during the life of the product.

Exotic Option: The securities are linked to a type of option known as an "exotic" option, so called because some of its features are more complicated than those of a simple or "plain vanilla" call or put option. Generally these features will involve a significantly change to the return of the securities if certain very specific events occur such as a Barrier feature whereby the return of the securities can change significantly if the reference asset(s) pass through a pre-determined barrier level. These features may also shorten considerably the maturity date of the securities such as a Callable feature whereby the securities may be called automatically by the Issuer should certain events occur. Other features may alter the composition of the reference asset(s) depending on the performance of each asset relative to one another. These features are explained in more detail in the documentation of the securities and you should make sure you understand the effect of these features fully before deciding whether to purchase the securities.

The Purchaser, and any Holder for which it is acting, has full power and capacity to give the acknowledgements, representations and undertakings set out above, and to purchase the Securities. Such purchase of the Securities and the giving of such acknowledgements, representations and undertakings do not, and will not, conflict with or breach any provision of the corporate constitution of the Purchaser or (as the case may be) the Holder or any law, regulation or court decree to which the Purchaser or (as the case may be) the Holder is subject. Where the Purchaser is acting as agent, such acknowledgments, representations and undertakings are given for its own account (except as provided to the contrary) and as agent for the person for whom it is acting.
